

What does it cost to join?

The current membership fee is £20. This includes the quarterly u3a magazine, u3amatters, insurance, and there is also a programme booklet produced annually telling you about the coffee morning dates and speakers and the groups, plus a regular email updating the situation if anything changes, such as new groups being formed, but it is a good idea to check the website occasionally. There may also be costs associated with group membership, groups are required to be self-financing, so if room hire is required there will be a fee for this. It will depend on how many members and the cost of hire, but it is usually in the region of £2 - £3 per session, normally paid as a group of several sessions.
